DAYTON, OHIO 45469
(513) 229-3241/3242

DAYTON, Ohio, April 23, 1976 --- A UD professor, whose family will be adding to its collection the twelfth degree from the same institution where he teaches, as well as five Dayton area students with a perfect 4. average are among those for whom graduating Sunday, April 25, at 10 AM (daylight savings time) will be a special day. A total of 972 students will be graduating.

The professor, Lawrence A. Jehn, who teaches in the computer science department, will watch his sixth child, Ann, graduate Cum Laude (3.60) with a bachelor of fine arts degree. He and his wife Betty are 1943 graduates of UD; Mrs. Jehn also earned her masters degree in history from UD in 1972. Added to the inventory of family accomplishments are five other children and two daughters-in-law with bachelors degrees and one son with a masters degree, all from UD. Two other sons have gone on to earn advanced degrees at other universities.

The students graduating summa cum laude with perfect 4. averages and their majors are Deborah Marie Knipper, 264 Volusia Ave., accounting; Linda Sue Ruschau, 1340 Carlisle Ave., political science; Julie M. VanLeeuwen, 1053 Yorkshire Pl, fine arts; and Jeanne Zekowski, 1404 Hillpoint Lane, secondary education, all of Dayton and Shelley I. Staddon McIntyre, 135 South St., Fairborn, psychology.

Also among the honor graduates is Mrs. Van Callahan whose family held high positions in the government of South Vietnam prior to its fall to Hanoi. They were among the last to be evacuated. Mrs. Callahan, whose husband is a local attorney, attended the University of Paris and University of Saigon where she majored in biology. One of her primary obstacles has been the need to translate into English scientific formulas which she has memorized in French. The problem has not been so great that she will not continue at UD as a graduate student. She presently is studying for her entrance exam.

Other Dayton area students graduating summa cum laude are Jill Moberley, 3.98, English; Andrew A. Wolf, 3.95, chemistry; Ann Marie Peters Raney, 3.92, elementary education; Kathleen Rebecca Long, 3.92, premedical; and Regina M. Toomey, 3.90, chemistry, all of Dayton, and Teri Lynn Unger, 3.92, criminal justice, of Centerville, and Sara Anne Blackford, Kettering, 3.94, dietetics.

Students graduating magna cum laude include Edward L. Long, 3.86, accounting; Kathleen Suzanne Sullivan, 3.86, accounting; Karl James Anzalone, 3.79, criminal justice; Karl Anthony Drerup, 3.72, medical technology; Larry Edward Washing, 3.70, philosophy, and Annette Louise Martin, 3.70, marketing, all of Dayton.

Other magna cum laude graduates from the greater Dayton area are Robert W. Gaeke, 3.8 accounting, Kettering; Dirk Thomas Biermann, 3.77, political science, Bellbrook; Judith Ellen Deis, 3.75, physics, Centerville; Joan Elizabeth Brugger, 3.73, dietetics, Springfield, and Jane Ann Uhrig Brockman, 3.71, social work, Kettering.

Cum Laude graduates from the Dayton area are Cheryl Ann Humphrey, 3.67, criminal justice; Michael Ralph Shuey, 3.65, philosophy; Joyce Beerbower, 3.64 accounting; Larry D. Johnson, 3.61, mathematics; Stephen N. Beaty, 3.61, accounting; and George Anthony Poulo, 3.56, chemistry, all of Dayton.

Also of Dayton and graduating cum laude are Thomas Edward Adams, 3.55, secondary education; James Bernard Murray, 3.55, computer science; Andrea Lee Butler, 3.55, communication arts; Christopher Meehan, 3.54, electrical engineering; Mary S. Melia, Dayton, 3.53, medical technology; Jill Annette Blardinelli, 3.52, communication arts; Joyce Gaeke, 3.50, elementary education; Jack Ewalt Adair, 3.50, chemical engineering, and John W. Weber, 3.5, bachelor of technology.

Cum laude graduates of the Greater Dayton area include Sandra Pawelkoski, 3.61, journalism, Middletown; Michael Joseph Simonton, 3.57, anthropology, Kettering; and Joseph Edward Derksen, 3.55, pre dental, Tipp City.
